

HOCUSPOCUS.

Success! We got your attention. Because when it comes to skincare, hocus pocus makes people buy—which is why everything seems to be called "magic", "miracle", "perfect" or "wonder" something. Our super-scientific serum sounds really boring in comparison—it combines a first-ever stable copper peptide lysinate/prolinate, a better-than-retinol nonapeptide-3 retino-complex, a next generation of the Matrixyl palmitoyl tripeptide-38, 5 forms of hyaluronic compounds to reach multiple skin depths, a skin-identical barrier carbohydrate and clinical forms of Antarctic and Hawaiian algae in a base of a skin-binding glycoprotein-based delivery system. Our SubQ serum targets all signs of aging. It's full of boring-sounding science that is proven to work in 5 days. But we needed to say hocus pocus to sell it.

Taylor Swift has added none other than Hillary Clinton to her long list of besties as she throws her support behind the Presidential candidate. "Taylor and Hillary are planning to collaborate on a massive fund-raising concert later this fall," an insider explains. "Taylor is a feminist, and Hillary needs someone as influential as Taylor in her corner."

While Taylor's advisors worry that her "Swifties" may balk at her newfound political agenda, she believes that any backlash will easily blow over by the time her next album hits shelves. "Taylor's massive fan base will undoubtedly help Hillary's chances of becoming the first woman President," adds the insider, "and Taylor couldn't think of anything more exciting than to be part of world history." SET SECRETS

Jennifer Lawrence and Nicholas Hoult are learning the hard way not to mix business and romance! Things have reportedly become so toxic between the X-Men: Apocalypse costars (and exes) that crew members were forced to shut down production for several hours while the two "cooled off." "Jen blew up on Nick while they were in the middle of a scene because he made a snide remark," dishes an insider. "She's at her wits' end when it comes to Nick's emotions." While Jen's camp says the incident never happened, Star's insider says that Nick can't accept that the Hunger Games hottie has moved on with Coldplay frontman Chris Martin: "He can't let their relationship go," says the spy.

STACEY'S CRASS COURSE

Actress turned Tea Party talking head Stacey Dash isn't making any friends on the set of her new movie, Sleight. "She is so arrogant and mean, no one on set likes her," tattled a production insider. "She orders the crew around like servants and refuses to eat lunch with the rest of the cast." The actress has even earned an unflattering new nickname: "We call her Stacey Crass behind her back," says the on-set source. Talk about clueless!

Michael Cera ADORKABLE NO MORE

Superbad and Arrested Development aren't just Michael Cera's biggest hits — they're also how Hollywood snitches are describing the once "adorkable" actor! "He's obnoxious and rude and treats women like objects," snipes a source about the unexpected Lothario. "He'll use his humor to make women fall for him, then he'll dump them once he gets what he wants."

And while he's taken to tooling around town in an expensive car, he needs to pump the brakes on his boorish behavior. "He talks down to people, but he's so witty that people don't realize that he's openly mocking them," dishes the source. "Michael used to be the nicest guy, but within the last couple of years, the fame has changed him. This new Michael is unbearable." *

Nicole Kidman and daughter Isabella are doing some serious female bonding! Nicole has decamped to London to star in a West End play and is determined to become "best buddies" with her 22-year-old adopted daughter, who has been in England for three years studying hair and makeup. "They spent a couple of hours together and put several dates on the schedule," dishes an insider. For years, relations between the two were strained in the wake of Nicole's 2001 divorce from Tom Cruise, and things only got worse after Nicole "replaced" Bella and her brother Connor, 20, with Sunday, 7, and Faith, 4, her two biological daughters with Keith Urban. But even after the pair buried the hatchet in recent years, Nicole's jet-set schedule and Isabella's low-key lifestyle made spending time together difficult. Now, says a Nicole insider, her eldest daughter is her top priority. "She's excited to really spend quality time with Bella while she's in London," says the source. "They have plans to see each other every few days— Nicole is so excited." \star

In an ironic twist, the alleged au pair affair has brought the Afflecks closer.

N Aug. 8, Ben Affleck and Jennifer Garner put on a happy face (and their wedding bands!) to take their three children, Violet, Seraphina and Samuel, out to lunch and a local movie theater to see *Inside*Out. Despite Jen's fury over Ben's alleged affair with the family nanny, Christine Ouzounian, the couple have found themselves united for a surprising cause: their mutual loathing of the sitter!

"Ben and Jen realized they have a common enemy in Christine," a source tells Star, "because she's been playing both of them like a fiddle." Since the split, Christine hasn't said a word, but her new lifestyle screams "hush money". From July 29 to Aug. 4, the out-of-work nanny, 28, was holed up in Ben's home away from home, the Hotel Bel-Air, for a six-day stay that would have cost her around $12,000 after factoring in her taste for the hotel's ritzy Wolfgang Puck restaurant and frequent trips to the spa. Rumor is she's now ensconced in a $10,000-a-month private residence. And of course there's that brand new Lexus convertible.

While a rep for the Batman v Superman star continues to deny claims that the actor, 42, is paying for Christine's living expenses, how else could this unemployed babysitter afford to live in the lap of luxury?

"There's no doubt both Ben and Jen are terrified of Christine going public," says a source. "It'd be in Ben's best interest to keep Christine happy, so I wouldn't be surprised if she bleeds the Afflecks for half a million dollars. They want her out of their lives that bad."

The upside is that the scandal has actually brought Ben and Jen, both 43, closer than they've been in a long time. "Ben can't believe just how much he's hurt his family," says the source. "He's come to realize that Jen has always had his back and is one of the few people who genuinely loves him unconditionally." ★

BORROWED BIRTHDAY GIFT

Tyga put on a good show, handing over the keys to a $320,000 white Ferrari 458 convertible to girlfriend Kylie Jenner for her 18th birthday, but according to insiders, he'll be asking for those back. "Tyga can't even afford to pay his rent, let alone buy a brand-new Ferrari," says a source. "The buzz in their inner circle is that he leased it for a short period of time, so Kylie had better not get too used to that car — it's probably headed back to the dealer very soon." The Cash Money rapper's reported $5 million fortune recently took a hit after The Gold Album dropped like lead, selling only 22,000 copies in its first week and his former management company filed a lawsuit for $4 million, alleging he fired them without cause. "At this point, Kylie pays for everything," the pal tells Star. "She picks up the tab when they fly private, stay at hotels or go on vacation. She's become a sugar mama at 18." ★

Jamie CAUGHT FLIRTING WITH FANS

Jamie Dornan might be a professional when it comes to posing with fans on the Czech Republic set of his World War II drama Anthropoid, but an eyewitness tells Star that the British actor — who has a daughter with wife Amelia Warner — was also spotted at Prague's M1: Lounge in early August, hitting on a group of gorgeous girls. "After posing for a photo with this one blonde, he kissed her on the cheek as she tousled his hair," the source says. "He asked another girl, 'How do you say, "You have beautiful eyes," in Czech?' before she leaned in to whisper the answer into his ear." The Fifty Shades of Grey hunk, 33, bought his new friends quite a few drinks that night too. "We were making bets on who he would go home with," the eyewitness reveals. "I had no idea he was married!" ★

*Mariah*JEALOUS Q JAMES' EX

Media mogul James Packer attended a charity event in Sydney on Aug. 1 with a beautiful brunette on his arm. The only problem? It wasn't girlfriend Mariah Carey! "James and his exwife Jodhi [Meares] couldn't keep their hands off each other," reveals a fellow partygoer. "They were acting like newlyweds." Later that night, Jodhi instagrammed a quote from Charles Bukowski's poem "Raw With Love": "I will remember the kisses/our lips raw with love/and how you gave me/everything you had/and how I/offered you what was left of/me." According to sources, Mariah, 45, flew into a jealous rage after seeing it, especially after she befriended Jodhi, 44, when the three vacationed on James' yacht back in June. "She took it as a message from his ex-wife," explains an insider, "that Jodhi's still in love with James and plans on trying to win him back." *

Orlando's DADDY DILEMMA

Daddies dearest? While Orlando Bloom is still getting to know ex-wife Miranda Kerr's new boyfriend Evan Spiegel, a source tells Star that he's concerned with just how much time the Snapchat CEO, 25, is spending with his son, Flynn. "Miranda has Evan over her house constantly," says the insider. "They carry on like a little family. Orlando thinks it's too much, too soon."

And considering the heartwarming speech the 4-year-old made at a recent Spiegel family gathering, Orlando might be onto something. "Flynn said he thinks of Evan as a father and loves him so much," reveals a source. However, the actor, 38, might soon not have much say in the matter. "They've only been dating for a month, but Evan has fallen head over heels for Miranda," says the source. "He adores her and thinks he would make an excellent stepfather for Flynn."

WAX ON, WAX OFF! Jessica & Eric's BIZARRE BEAUTY ROUTINE! The couple that waxes together

The couple that waxes together, stays together! In an effort to spice up their sex life, Jessica Simpson and Eric Johnson recently signed up for a joint hair-removal session, and according to insiders, the 35-year-olds are hooked. "They have a professional come to the house to do it every two weeks now," spills a source. Jessica has everything done — head to toe while Eric gets his ears, fingers and feet done, plus a bit of shaping around his hairline and beard. "Jess has been so busy being a mom and running her business that she thought doing this together would be like killing two birds with one stone," the pal explains to Star, "but she didn't realize what a kick they would get from it!" As for the pain brought on by the spa treatment? "They don't mind and even joke that it's added a little bit of edge to their sex life," says the source. "Plus they think they look pretty good too." *

Earlier this summer, when Coco Austin broke the news to her hubby of 13 years, Ice T, that she was finally pregnant, the rapper's initial reaction was far from romantic. "He joked that he wanted a DNA test," reveals a source. "Coco was practically in tears over it." Back in 2013, rapper AP.9 revealed to Star that he met Coco, 35, at a nightclub in Las Vegas, and afterward they had unprotected sex in his hotel room. While the affair put a strain on Ice and Coco's marriage, insiders say the couple were able to move past it. "Ice just can't believe he's going to be a father again at 57, and he makes jokes because he's a little nervous," says a pal of the actor, who has two children from previous relationships. "He was in the doghouse for a while after that crass joke, but it seems like he definitely got the message!" ★ this time," she says. "I have a nutritionist to keep me healthy." Indeed, in her first trimester, she did manage to maintain her famous figure—but that may have been more a matter of morning sickness than sound diet. "I'm at that stage where everything is making me sick," she said early on. "Even the smell of food..."

She's past that now — and has been playing catch-up. "Kim looks to be putting on weight faster now," says celebrity body and beauty expert Alicia Hunter, adding that pregnant women should not exceed a 25- to 35-lb. gain for the entire pregnancy. "She looks to be closing in on 200 lbs."

People who know her well confirm that Kim is insatiable. "Her healthy eating lasted all of two weeks!" dishes a friend. "Food is her Achilles' heel. It always has been, and it always will be. She simply has no willpower." With this baby, however, lack of diet determination is only part of the equation.

WEIGHING ON HER MIND

Cravings are a normal part of pregnancy, and celebrities are by no means immune; yet Kim's now in a different place emotionally from where she was when carrying North two years ago. Her stepfather and sisters have been struggling with all kinds of drama, which is taking

Huge Hideaway

Kim and Kanye purchased this sprawling $20 million estate in Hidden Hills, Calif., in 2014 — and she could easily hide out here for the duration of her pregnancy. Yet no matter how big she gets, her hunger for attention compels her to go out in public.

a toll on Kim. "She's been out of her mind with worry about how the public would react to Caitlyn [Jenner's] transition, and she's deeply concerned about Kourtney, who is absolutely heartbroken over Scott [Disick]," says an insider. "It's all unbelievably stressful for Kim, and she turns to food as a coping mechanism. She pigs out on comfort food all day."

Kim's unhealthy eating habit is compounded by the fact that, at age 34, the baby weight may not melt off as easily it did after her first child. "Shortly after delivery, Kim could expect to lose only around 11 lbs.; the rest will take months to shed," says Hunter. Since her figure is her fortune, this has got to be troubling Kim: On her overtly curvy but petite 5'2" frame, just a few bites can constitute a bulge.

Piling on pounds is more than a trial to Kim's vanity, though. "There are medical risks, such as backache, heartburn and hemorrhoids," says Hunter. "Kim could also be upping her risk for gestational diabetes, which could lead to type 2 diabetes later in life and also increase her baby's odds of developing the disease."

An additional concern stems from the fact that Kim went into premature labor with North after experiencing severe swelling. Doctors reportedly feared she had preeclampsia, a dangerous complication that can be worsened by excessive weight gain, potentially affecting internal organs and causing slow growth in the child. Considering that Kim and Kanye resorted to in vitro fertilization this time, her friends are alarmed to see her jeopardizing her health and that of her baby.

ON THE PLUS SIDE?

Kim's seemingly unstoppable proportions aren't perceived as a negative to everyone. Momager Kris Jenner is said to be secretly pleased by her daughter's girth, believing it will translate into ratings gold. "Kris knows that the bigger Kim gets, the more publicity she'll garner," notes a source. "Kris only thinks with dollar signs in her eyes." Kanye, meanwhile, "is so deliriously happy that she's giving him the son he always wanted, he's turning a blind eye to what she eats," the insider says.

Kanye, who was responsible for some of his wife's previous fashion faux pas, also seems to be applying less pressure, wardrobe-wise. Kim's current attempts at maternity chic have been more on target. Instead of stuffing herself into frilly, fussy or patterned outfits, she's opting for solid colors, occasionally with a flowing coat for camouflage or strategically low-cut tops to draw the eye upward. "Kim knows how to focus attention on her boobs, not her belly or her butt, when she wants," says a friend. Yet she still can't seem to step out in anything that isn't skintight.

Kim relies on shapewear to minimize her size — another potential risk, since these garments can apply undue external pressure to the uterus. "She's been wearing double Spanx, and, as she gets bigger, that's only going to become more uncomfortable," says the source. "She's already complaining that she has stretch marks all over her body and has to sit down every five mnutes. Let's hope her final trimester isn't a repeat of her last time around. She was miserable." ★

38 Star AUGUST 31, 2015

ARLY in the morning on Aug. 12, just weeks after finalizing their painfully drawn-out divorce, Lamar Odom approached Khloé Kardashian outside a Beverly Hills SoulCycle studio.

What transpired next, according to shocked witnesses, played out like a harrowing thriller. At one point, when the former NBA star touched his ex-wife, she reportedly yelled, "Get off of me, get off of me! Stop, stop!"

The experience may have seemed scary for Khloé, 31, but sources tell Star the encounter — which reports have described as an "ambush" — was much more innocent than it's been portrayed. "He didn't surprise her or follow her there or anything like that. It was obviously an agreed-upon meeting; she absolutely knew she'd see him there," says an eyewitness. "It wasn't even a heated exchange until just before they went their separate ways. Something was said, it went from good to very bad and then they both went crazy."

THE FALLOUT

So what, exactly, provoked the showdown? According to a Kardashian insider, Lamar, 35, dissed Khloe's new boyfriend, NBA star James Harden. "Lamar is outraged that after everything they went through in their marriage, with his womanizing and cheating, she's now with someone who is known for being a playboy," the source says. "He told her to open her eyes and said she was crazy for getting involved with James.'

Furious, Khloé proclaimed that her love life was none of Lamar's business but he kept pushing the subject. "She couldn't take it," the insider adds. "She'd had enough of his preaching." In the end, Khloé stormed off without even going to her fitness class.

Following the confrontation, reporters accused Lamar of stalking his ex, which clearly upset the already agitated athlete. "I am not, not, not the person that they're trying to make me out to be," he told them, his voice shaking. "Did I just guess right where this girl may be? You know I know Khloé, right?... So, how would you think I ended up there?"

Sources close to Lamar say his irate rant stemmed from him being falsely accused of ambushing Khloé. "He might have been stupid in his past, but he's not really an angry guy. It takes a lot to rile him," one insider says. "I think he's just been worn down, and now he's flipped out."

WHY HE'S MAD

The timing of Khloé's new relationship is particularly painful to Lamar. Now, two years since their breakup, he's finally getting his life back on track, following the 2013 drug-abuse scandal that led to the apparent end of his NBA career. "Lamar has really been trying. He's moved to Las Vegas to escape the Hollywood spotlight, and he's been working out and improving his health. He's aware he's a mess, but he's really focusing on his well-being," says the source. "Khloé's been telling him they would never reconcile unless he changed, so he's been doing just that. Only now she's dating James — a young, successful basketball star who is a bit like the old Lamar. It's a slap in the face to him and everything he's been trying to correct."

Even though Khloé's supporters have claimed she was surprised and traumatized by the Aug. 12 run-in with her ex, the reality star has admitted in recent interviews that she continues to talk to Lamar, still loves him and wishes she were still married to him. What's more, as Star has previously reported, the former couple have rendezvoused in hotels multiple times this year, in hopes of rekindling their romance.

"Lamar read these interviews where she said she misses him, and it gave him something to fight for. But then she got with James, and it all went wrong," the insider notes, adding that the duo finalized their divorce shortly after she started dating the 25-year-old Houston Rockets guard. "Lamar was sure she did it purely to get back at him."

Now, after being publicly humiliated by Khloé, Lamar might be plotting his revenge. Sources say he's been approached about writing a tell-all book about their relationship. "At the moment, he's seriously considering it, because he feels like Khloé's playing him, and he wants to lash out," says the insider. "She'd better be careful about how she treats him, because he could absolutely cash in on the Kardashian > secrets, and destroy Khloé and her whole family in the process." *

NO WONDER LAMAR IS IEALOUS! JAMES HARDEN IS 10 YEARS YOUNGER THAN HIM — AND HAS EVERYTHING LAMAR LOST.

He drives a Rolls-Royce and rocks a Rolex — and he just inked a $200 million deal with Adidas.

He's Rich!

He's Won Olympic Gold!

USA Olympic team, James won a gold medal. (Lamar only got bronze in 2004.)

He's Got Khloé!

And things are getting serious: After her fight with Lamar. Khloé flew to Houston to see her new man.

NLIKE so many child stars who fade into obscurity or cling to public attention via scandalous antics, Full House twins Mary-Kate and Ashley Olsen have maintained both their fame and their dignity. But all that may change due to recent charges that they exploited some 40 young interns who labored without pay for their billion-dollar fashion and entertainment empire.

"This is a major embarrassment for the Olsens," says a source in their camp. "Their reputation is on the line."

A CHIC SWEATSHOP?

Dualstar Entertainment Group, the licensing and manufacturing company the 29-year-old twins have owned since the tender age of 6, is the target of a class-action lawsuit that alleges wage theft. The lead plaintiff in the case, filed in Manhattan Supreme Court on Aug. 7, is aspiring designer Shahista Lalani, who worked for The Row, the Olsens' upscale design label. While a simple sweater from The Row can cost more than a thousand dollars. Shahista contends she pulled grueling workweeks but wasn't paid a dime to perform such basic tasks as cleaning, running errands and photocopying. "You're like an employee,

"You're like an employee, except you're not getting paid," said Shahista, who toiled for The Row from May to September 2012. On one particular occasion, "it was like 100°F outside. I'd just be sweating to death. I probably carried like 50 lbs.' worth of trench coats," said Shahista, adding that she once had to be hospitalized for dehydration due to the rigors of the job. Shahista's complaints address a Shahista's complaints address a crucial point of unpaid internships.

Ostensibly, interns are to be e.mriched by the experience, participating in the industry in ways that don't directly benefit the company; they're not supposed to do productive work — including menial chores — that the firm would otherwise hire a low-level employee to do. It's a fine line, but one the Olsens may have crossed.

And Shahista apparently isn't the only one to withstand harsh treatment. "I'd see a lot of kids crying doing coffee runs," said Shahista, who aims her ire at The Row's technical designer, her former supervisor.

"This is a hard lesson for them!"

- an insider tells Star

"She was very demanding," Shahista said, claiming she had to be on-call at all hours. "I was doing the work of three interns." She contends that other high-level executives at the label were equally difficult. "They're mean. You don't get a set 15-minute break; you just go with their crazy flow," she said.

TAKING IT SERIOUSLY

The suit doesn't cite the Olsens personally, perhaps because of their absence: "Mary-Kate and Ashley portray themselves as true businesspeople, but they rarely go to the office," reveals the insider. "You can be sure they never even heard of these interns until this lawsuit. Maybe this will teach them to be more involved with their staff day to day."

Now that the sisters have heard, they're fighting back. According to company representative Annett Wolf: "The allegations in the complaint filed against Dualstar are groundless, and Dualstar will vigorously defend itself against plaintiff's claims. Dualstar is confident that once the true facts of this case are revealed, the lawsuit will be dismissed in its entirety."

That's a bold statement, but "the lawsuit could have legs," opines attorney Jed Marcus, chair of the labor and employment practice group at Bressler, Amery & Ross P.C. Shahista could win "liquidated damages," a punitive measure which would double her back pay. Plus, if class action is awarded, serious money could be involved. And it's unlikely the Olsens have the clout to make this case go away. "Defendants would need to show that the complaint doesn't plead enough facts to plausibly show that a violation occurred," Marcus says.

Lawsuits of this nature are often settled out of court. "The dilemma for the twins is to choose between settling now or risk more embarrassing stuff coming out at trial — and more negative headlines about their company," says the insider. "This is their livelihood. Whatever they decide, heads are likely to roll over this." *

OLLOWING a risky ploy to keep her two children on American soil, actress Kelly Rutherford was ordered by a New York Supreme Court judge on Aug. 11 to send her young son and daughter back to their father in Monaco. The heartbreaking verdict was issued days after the Gossip Girl star violated a court-ordered custody agreement with her ex-husband Daniel Giersch stipulating that Hermes, 8, and Helena, 6, were to return to Europe after spending six weeks in Manhattan with their mother.

"What the judge did...was shocking, illegal and abusive to my children," Kelly, 46, said in a statement following the emotional hearing. "She has to live with herself, and if she has a conscience, I suspect she will not sleep well ever again."

But legal experts fear it was the actress's blatant disregard for the law that may have been the basis for Judge Ellen Frances Gesmer's decision. "Kelly is going to have less time [with her children] because she disobeyed the court order," explains Rong Kohtz, a New York—based international custody attorney. "Strictly speaking, she engaged in parental abduction."

AN UPHILL BATTLE

The Melrose Place alum has spent millions fighting to have her children permanently returned to the U.S. ever since a California judge granted her exhusband permission to take the kids to live with him in Monaco temporarily in 2012, after his U.S. visa was revoked.

"This has been the most painful experience Kelly has ever had to deal with," a source tells Star. "She has no money left, thanks to extensive legal fees, but she doesn't care — this is not the end, as far as she is concerned."

The former couple have a court hearing in Monaco on Sept. 3 to discuss decisions surrounding the children's schooling and health care. Though Daniel's lawyers say he is not "looking to punish" his ex-wife for trying to keep the kids in NYC, she could be subject to supervised visits for her defiant behavior.

"Kelly's truly a mess — she's hit rock bottom," adds the source. "But she's not going to stop trying. Nothing is as important as her children, and she will not give up on them." ★

→ THE CARMICHAEL SHOW

Premieres Wednesday, Aug. 26, at 9PM, on NBC

A familycentric sitcom that will actually make you laugh, it's built around the stand-up comedy of Jerrod Carmichael. He plays a version of himself, a rising comedian with a crazy family. His father (David Alan Grier) is a domineering knowit-all with a heart, while his mother (Loretta Devine) has her own quirks — as does Jerrod's strange brother, Bobby (comedian Lil Rel Howery), who can't seem to hold a job. Then there's Jerrod's fiancée (Amber Stevens West), a therapist in training who likes to practice on Jerrod. The plots are familiar, but the humor snaps like a whip, full of fast-flying insults and oddball non sequiturs. Carmichael may be the comedian, but he's just part of the background when Devine and Grier get to work. It's consistently entertaining and fast paced.

NARCOS

Premieres Friday, Aug. 28, on Netflix

The 10 episodes of this new series are a wild, violent ride that stars Boyd Holbrook as Steve Murphy, the real-life DEA agent who helped bring down '80s cocaine kingpin Pablo Escobar (Wagner Moura). The story shows how Escobar went from small-time contraband smuggler to the largest producer and exporter of cocaine from Colombia to the United States. Beginning in the late 1970s and following Escobar's rise, it mixes true stories with more fictionalized moments to create a sharp, engrossing drama full of bloodshed, sex and drugs. Though it jumps from event to event, the series is gripping and propulsive, full of tense moments and unexpected humor. Watch one episode, and you'll wind up bingeing on them all.

QUEEN OF EARTH

In this dreary psychodrama, Elizabeth Moss plays Catherine, a woman dealing with the suicide of her famous-artist father and a breakup with her boyfriend. She goes to the lake house of her best friend, Ginny (Katherine Waterston), to reconnect and get through this tough time. But Ginny has started a fling with neighbor Rich (Patrick Fugit), which gets on Catherine's nerves because she wants Ginny to herself. In flashback, however, we see a similar sequence from a year earlier, when the situation was reversed: Ginny needed Catherine, who was too involved with her own boyfriend. But the film is dull, confusing awkward silences with dramatic moments. Moss is sullen, brittle and standoffish, while Waterston is so quiet she seems to disappear...and you won't want to spend two hours watching either of them.

LONG STORY SHORT: This queen is a royal bore.

\rightarrow Z FOR ZACHARIAH

This quiet tale offers an intriguing postapocalyptic love triangle. Margot Robbie plays a woman living alone in the mountains after a nuclear war. She thinks she's the last person left alive, protected by the geography of her mountain home from the radiation that has poisoned the rest of the world. Then a scientist (Chiwetel Ejiofor) shows up, barely alive from radiation sickness and half-crazed from loneliness. She nurses him back to health, and they form a partnership that eventually begins to blossom into a romance — until a third survivor (Chris Pine) turns up, complicating everything. It's not some macho showdown between two men fighting for the attention of a woman, yet the tension rises the longer Pine stays around. Can the last people left on Earth figure out how to overcome the most basic human emotions of jealousy and insecurity? It's a low-key but brain-tickling tale.

LONG STORY SHORT: A psychological drama that keeps you guessing.

Healthy and beautiful hair bout a year ago I noticed my hair starting to fall out. I would find hairs in the shower and lots on my brush. It was so bad that my hair started to appear thin. This made me very concerned so I looked for solutions.

BEAUTY FROM WITHIN

I had heard about the concept "beauty from within" and how nutrients could impact the health of my hair, so I went to my pharmacy and looked for hair supplements.

The pharmacist directed me to Hair Volume, a well-known hair product from Europe, that contains biotin, silica, millet and apple extract. I thought it sounded good, so I gave it a try.

IT WORKED FOR ME

Now I have been using it for 2 months and I am really happy with the product.

It really works for me I strongly recommend it".

Turns 35 on Aug. 26

By Jennifer Angel

VIRGO AUG. 23-SEPT. 22

This is a lucky time. Focus on what you want, not what you don't. In other words, entertain positive thoughts only. Someone can step up to provide financial support. With love, trust your instincts.

LIBRA SEPT. 23-OCT. 22

You are a master networker, and friends may come through for you now in a big way. A positive referral to the right person can change your game plan.

SCORPIO OCT. 23-NOV. 21

If business is slow, be prepared to alter your course. When you let go of the old, a new opportunity can cross your path. But don't spend all your time at the office; make room for love.

SAGITTARIUS NOV. 22-DEC. 21

When love is meant to be, you will know it — but don't let a fear of commitment stop you from letting it into your heart. Use this week to plan and get inspired.

CAPRICORN DEC. 22-JAN. 19

Get ready to embrace what comes next! Someone may present you with an opportunity that will change your path, while a past love can reenter your life.

AOUARIUS JAN. 20-FEB. 18

An open and honest discussion with your partner or someone close may uncover new options to consider. A reality check at work can lead you to finally make a decision about your future.

PISCES FEB. 19-MARCH 20

You're the star of the moment! A moneymaking idea you thought had been put on the back burner can get the go-ahead just as your love life enters the hot zone.

ARIES

MARCH 21-APRIL 19

Your love life is in the spotlight and can take off now, all the way to the stars! Financial dealings with someone could get a setback; make sure all information imparted is fact, not fiction.

TAURUS

APRIL 20-MAY 20

The next move you make on the home front, or decisions with family. must sit well with you. Life is full of compromises, but enough is enough, it's time to look out for your own needs. A candid discussion can be very revealing.

GEMINI

MAY 21-JUNE 20

A social event with friends can open up work options you may not have considered. Take your time; think through your next move. It's possible to alter the course you are travelling — but be patient, it may not happen straight away.

CANCER JUNE 21–JULY 22

An unexpected career development can play right into your hands. Get ready to think on your feet and move into a new reality. Be careful of mixing love and money, while being mindful of past love lessons. You need stability, not triviality.

LEO

JULY 23-AUG. 22

Your purpose in life can get a whole lot clearer now — especially where love and money are concerned. You may also find yourself traveling, so dust off your suitcase. A decision about family may be delayed; but don't worry, it will work out.

THE PUZZLE PAGE THAT'S FUN FOR ALL!

What makes you a good friend?

Take this fun friendship style quiz to discover what your buddy personality says about you.

- 1. When it comes to a best friend, you look for someone who: (a) Has an upbeat attitude. (b) Values what you say and lets you vent.
- 2. One of your biggest strengths is:
- (a) Not letting little setbacks upset you.
- (b) Helping others when they're down.
- 3. Do you always say what's on your mind when asked for advice? (a) Sometimes. (b) Not usually — I always ask what the person thinks or feels.
- 4. A need that a friend should reveal? (a) Trust. (b) A compassionate nature.
- 5. You're most attracted to people who: (a) Are active or adventurous. (b) Have a great sense of humor.
- 6. What are your usual favorite hangout activities? (a) Movies, TV and take-out. (b) Partying and hanging out with friends.
- 7. Your friend's birthday is coming up, you: (a) Give a thoughtful card and buy lunch. (b) Frame a great picture of you together.

SCORING

MOSTLY A: Hello, sunshine! You are steadfast, loyal and nurturing to your buddies. You always offer support when needed and get the same in return. Your energy is contagious, but you also know how to handle tough situations when they arise. Your friendships are totally awesome.

MOSTLY B: You're a free-spirited friend who tries to be uplifting—not interfering or criticizing. Hanging out with you is always a relaxing good time. Many of your friendships go way back, and that history helps you understand where you're both coming from and push you harder to be best buds!

SWEEPING THE COUNTRY!

HERE'S HOW TO PLAY

- ★ The goal is to use every number from 1 to 9 without repeating that number in any column across, row down or within any 3x3 block.
- There's no math involved — no need to count or add up.
- ★ Just use logic to solve the puzzle.

GAGA'S UH-OH

Maybe she was too pumped up? Flamboyant singer Lady Gaga took a bit of a tumble after dinner with Real Housewives of Beverly Hills star Lisa Vanderpump at the reality star's West Hollywood restaurant Pump. While it's unknown if Gaga's frilly stiletto shoes, long purple Oriental robe or a few too many cocktails were to blame, Mother Monster put on her best poker face when she got up and smiled for the paparazzi.

Superego? Not so much.

The Man from U.N.C.L.E. hunk Henry Cavill, who's up next in the latest iteration of Superman, doesn't have a very high opinion of himself. "I'm very self-critical," the British actor said. "If I look in the mirror, I might say, 'You're looking good!'
Other days, like today, I'll say,
'Look at you, you fat fk.'"

Tough gal Michelle Rodriguez ran out of food and water while guesting on Running Wild with Bear Grylls. To survive, she ate a wild mouse, caught by Bear and stewed to perfection in her own pee. Yuck!

HA-HA

Funniest Throwback

Bethenny Frankel had some big hair back in the day. But a mass of curls and a Hawaiian necklace must've been assets in the Eighties, since the Real Housewives of New York City star posted this pic on Instagram with the caption: "When I used to get laid."

 Best Transformation

Hey, good lookin'! Tom Hiddleston's eerily accurate makeover to play Hank Williams for the biopic I Saw The Light is adding to a flurry of early Oscar buzz for the Thor actor.
